MCES Conference shows Hancock County ahead

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has found that Hancock County is ahead of much of the rest of the state in more than one area.

Board President Ronald Cuevas said he and other county officials attended an annual midwinter conference sponsored last week by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service and the Mississippi Association of Supervisors in Jackson, where county government reorganization was one of the major topics.

Other topics affecting Hancock County included rural fire protection, rural hospitals and waste disposal, Cuevas said. Much of the information provided concerned the most recent legislation in each area.

"Basically, these sessions gave supervisors the opportunity to upgrade their knowledge.

It was not only interesting, but very informative," the board president said.

Cuevas said reorganization of government was stressed as the most important topic of the conference.

"Some things have been left out by the legislature. They've told us to reorganize but some of the technicalities have never been addressed."

"For example, we went to $0 purchasing without a purchase order, where it used to be anything under $500 you didn't have to use a purchase order unless you have it in the inventory and you're warehousing. They didn't tell us how that was supposed to be done," he explained.

Fortunately, Hancock County was ahead of much of the state when the board decided to create a new purchasing department and make it effective on Oct. 1, to coincide with the beginning of the 1988-89 fiscal year.

Cuevas explained that having an already functioning purchasing department has made the transition, required as of Jan. 1, easier for Hancock County.

Another area where Hancock County appears to have fared better than many other counties is in waste disposal. The county's sanitary landfill at Catahoula closed last month and the county has contracted with Compton Engineering for preparation of permit application for a new site.

Cuevas said many of the counties represented have existing landfills that, like Hancock County's, are rapidly filling and need to be closed. Because they are not yet closed, they will fall under more stringent requirements now in effect and will be more difficult and expensive to shut down, particularly since one of the new regulations calls for 30-year monitoring.

In addition to attending the midwinter conference, the board met with members of the Mississippi Legislature.

"It's important for us to be able to talk with legislators so that they will support our projects. We need help from people on the appropriate committees," the board president said.

The board is currently trying to generate support for a plan that will make Texas Flat Road eligible for some of the $100 million being added to the Urban Development Highway Fund.

Due to new projects by the U.S. Air Force and NASA at Stennis Space Center that are expected to create about 1,600 jobs, the board feels the road will increase in its importance, becoming a critical factor in the success of the two ventures.

The road is presently mostly gravel with inadequate load support, poor drainage and inferior bridges. A section of paving between Highway 603 and a small cemetery just past McLeod Water Park began to break up during 1988.

The road is one of the most direct access routes between the space center and Stennis International Airport and provides a route for space center employees living in the Highway 603 area. The road is often impassible in bad weather, but could become an escape route for residents if it were improved.

The estimated cost of improving the road to Federal Highway Administration Standards is $4,145,175.

The board meets again at 9 a.m. Friday in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Ladner sentenced in 'Pretense' conviction

BY DENA BISNETTE

Former Hancock County Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner, convicted in Operation Pretense, must report to the federal prison at Eglin Air Force Base in Fort Walton Beach, Fla., by 2 p.m. Feb. 21.

U.S. District Judge Tom Lee sentenced Ladner Monday to serve a year and a day in jail and five years' probation and pay $1,598.25 restitution and $2,000 in fines.

Ladner had been convicted on one count of mail fraud, for which he must serve the prison term, and one count of extortion, for which he received the probation, in connection with accepting a $597 kickback while serving as Hancock County East Three supervisor.

Lee had originally planned for Ladner's sentence to begin Feb. 6, but granted him the extra time to get his business in order.

The former supervisor had been accused of conspiring with Max Gilbert of Holiman Equipment Company to buy a pothole patcher, priced at $37,750, in September of 1984. Holiman allegedly agreed to give them each a $500 kickback and allegedly gave Ladner $1500 to distribute to board members in January 1985.

Ladner is eligible for parole in four months.

"I really glad that this is finally over after a year or so," the former supervisor said Wednesday. "It has been a real strain on me and my family. The worst part is over now; I want to try to get this sentence behind me and get on with my life."

It has been reported that Ladner originally pleaded innocent and then plea-bargained his way to reduced charges as many of the other 56 supervisors charged across the state have done.

However, he stated, "I pleaded guilty and admitted taking $500. It wasn't any situation with a fake invoice or a split invoice. The county received what was paid for. It wasn't one of those deals where you pay for 20 culverts and receive 10."

Unlike some of the other supervisors, who had to promise never to seek public office again, Ladner, 41, can run again after the five years' probation term is completed. The probation begins the day the prison term ends.

"They didn't tell me I couldn't, but I probably would never consider running for anything again," said the former supervisor, who was re-elected to his third term by a single vote and resigned in July 1988 after being convicted. Ladner had served a four-year term as Justice Court Judge prior to being elected supervisor.

BAY LITTLE THEATRE

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will hold a reorganization meeting Wednesday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Mississippi Power Building conference room on Dunbar Avenue and US-90. Plans for the coming year will be discussed and officers will be elected.

Bay School Board plans second hearing on consolidation

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board has decided to have another public meeting on consolidation.

Board Secretary Charles Benvenuti, standing in as president Monday night because Board President Betty Diboll was ill with the flu, said the board had not yet taken an official position on consolidation.

The board called a special meeting for 7 p.m., Jan. 19, with only two agenda items. The first is collection of public input on consolidation, as was done at the hearing the board conducted last week.

The second, added on a request from Board Member William Bradley, will be personnel. He did not state what specific business would be dealt with, but said it would be "whatever we need to discuss at that time."

Benvenuti said last week's hearing did not really provide the public with any specific information about consolidation and how it would be done in Hancock County.

"Because I expect it to come to a vote, unless we create a particular form of consolidation and pursue it through a local and private bill in next year's legislature, we need to start working on a model of consolidation to present to the public and say, here, this is what we're thinking of doing," he said.

Bradley and another board member, Danny Carter, said that whether or not consolidation is approved, the district should continue its building program.

That continuation, they said, should include both the classroom addition to Bay Senior High and a multi-purpose building that will include a bandhall and auditorium. The district's auditorium facility is at Bay Junior High. Both structures will still be needed if consolidation occurs.

The board has already received a report on the legal aspects of consolidation from its attorney, Lucien Gex.

The report, more than four pages, states in its introduction, "The phrase 'consolidation of schools in the district' at the outset would appear to be a relatively simple undertaking. It would imply that there would be a joining of the boards of trustees of both districts and

Joseph murder trial continues today

BY D.C. HARVILL

The murder trial of Pass Christian attorney Melbourne E. Joseph Jr. continues today in Hancock County Circuit Court, with Judge Kasta Vlahos presiding.

Joseph, 40, a labor relations attorney, is charged with murder in the death of his estranged wife, Diana, 32, on December 22, 1987. He allegedly drove his car into hers, causing it to crash into a telephone pole. She died later that day while undergoing surgery at Hancock Medical Center.

On Monday Joseph argued in his own behalf to have the indictment against him dismissed, claiming the district attorney's office had violated his constitutional rights to a speedy trial.

Joseph has been indicted three times on the same charge. The original indictment was withdrawn by the DA's office; the second was thrown out of court.

In his opening statement, Joseph's attorney, Jim Rose of Gulfport, said he would prove that the car Joseph was driving when the collision occurred had a history of problems and that brake failure accounted for the accident.

Testimony for the state Tuesday revealed that on the day of the fatal accident Joseph had hired two private investigators to watch his wife and determine whether she was seeing another man.

Frances Krankey, manager of Manor House Apartments on DeMontluzin Street in Bay St. Louis, where Diana Joseph and her 16-year-old daughter Wendy had been living for approximately a month, testified that she had observed two men in a car parked in the apartment's parking lot.

"I went over and asked them what they were doing. When I found out they weren't residents or visitors I asked them to leave."

Suspecting the men were watching Diana Joseph, she called her and told her about them. "She seemed upset when I told her about them," she said.

Bay St. Louis insurance agent James Mallini, a private investigator at the time of the accident, testified that Joseph had called him at 10 a.m. on December 22 and asked him to take a domestic case.

"I said I would, and he gave me two names, descriptions of two cars and two tag numbers. He gave me Diana's first name. He said the cars were on Kiln-Delisle Road and he needed me to find them. He said it was urgent, to hurry up," Mallini said.

Mallini and private investigator Paul Barkmeier then set out to find the automobiles. When he called Joseph about an hour later to tell him he had not found the cars, Mallini was given her address at Manor House Apartments and her phone number.

"I called the number to see if she was home and when she answered I said I was sorry I got a wrong number. We then went over and set up surveillance. We had been there about an hour when we were asked to leave," Mallini said.

The two investigators then relocated to a spot at the side of the street at 104 DeMontluzin and set up surveillance where they could watch the exit to the apartment complex.

"We were sitting there when Mr. Joseph came up DeMontluzin Street from the beach. He almost passed us, but when he saw us he backed into a shell parking lot at an apartment complex across the street."

Barkmeier testified that Joseph's car, a light green Oldsmobile Toronado, came to a "quick stop" and appeared to have no braking problems.

"I walked across the street and got in the car with him. I told him she was home and we were waiting for her to leave," Mallini said. We had a discussion but I couldn't elaborate on it," Mallini said.

Joseph expressed some concern for his daughter, Wendy, and said he wanted to talk to his wife, Mallini said.

"Then Diana's car (a gold-colored Dodge Colt) poked out of the driveway and I said I had to go to work and I went back to my own car," Mallini said.

After pulling out of the driveway, Mrs. Joseph drove down DeMontluzin toward the beach, driving by Mallini and Barkmeier slowly, looking at them as she passed. She turned around at the beach and drove slowly up DeMontluzin again. When she passed the investigators "she was looking me in the eyes," Barkmeier said.

"When she came back she almost came to a complete stop. She made an obscene gesture then drove away. At which time Joseph drove out after her."

The investigators and two residents of the apartment complex in front of which Joseph had parked, all testified that he had accelerated rapidly, kicking up shells from the driveway.

"I was rather surprised. He was the one who had hired us, then there he was cancelling anything we could have accomplished that day," Barkmeier said. "To me it sounded like he had the gas pedal all the way to the floor."

The investigators both said Joseph had to swerve to avoid an automobile pulling out of Manor House Apartments, but did not see his brake lights come on.

The investigators said, because their view was obscured by the car Joseph had swerved to avoid, they did not witness the actual crash. They did hear a loud bang and saw a large cloud of dust at the intersection of DeMontluzin and Second Streets, they said.

Coast Electric employee Danny Patton, with his nephew, Randy Ellis, in the car, was approaching the intersection on Second, when he saw two cars coming up DeMontluzin.

"I said, 'Oh God, Randy, look!' because I knew neither was going to be able to make the turn or stop."

"Then the Olds hit the smaller car and it went into the telephone pole and spun around the pole," Patton said.

Patton then followed the Olds and got its tag number. "I saw brake lights after it got 20 to 30 yards past the small car but I didn't see it stop."

Dentist Dr. Bert Keel, whose office is located at a corner of the intersection, was among the first to arrive at Diana Joseph's car.

"When I went out I saw only one car and was wondering what happened to the other car. We pried the door open and lifted her out and placed her on the ground next to the car. She was opening her eyes and moaning."

After the accident Joseph's car was found at Scaffidi's Chevron Station on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis.

Joseph alleged, drove the car to the service station and got a ride with the owner's son, David Scaffidi, who drove him to the scene of the accident.

At the scene, witnesses say, Scaffidi got Mrs. Joseph's purse and returned toward his truck.

"David Scaffidi told me he was a friend of the family and would be meeting them at the hospital. He said if I would give him the purse he would give it to them at the hospital," said Dr. Keel.

Scaffidi did not express any concern for Mrs. Joseph, Keel said.

"He didn't get out of my parking lot," Keel said. "He was stopped by a policeman who had asked me what happened to the purse. I told him I gave it to David Scaffidi."

Kenyeta Stewart, an employee of Keel at the time, seemed uncertain that the policeman had recovered the purse from Scaffidi.

According to Stewart, there was another person in Scaffidi's vehicle, that she learned, when she saw his picture on television that night, was Joseph.

After the time of the accident Joseph was seen at Gulf National Bank (now Peoples Federal) in Pass Christian, where he went into his safe deposit box. Shelly Wells, a teller at the bank, who testified that she had been involved in an intimate relationship with Joseph and had been to his house at lunch that day, said he seemed shocked, confused, agitated and nervous.

"He really didn't talk to me. He was babbling," she said.

Bay Police Chief Ray Murphy testified that there were absolutely no skid marks and no automobile fluids at the scene.

"We were looking for evidence that someone had tried to stop, but found no evidence that they had," Murphy said.

Murphy said he drove Joseph's Toronado from the police station to Ben Hille's garage the day after the incident and stopped approximately 11 times en route.

"At no time did the brakes not work or fade...doing approximately 25 miles per hour I locked up the brakes. I got out and measured the skid marks. They measured 50-something feet."

Mississippi Highway Patrolman David Kenny, who had been following Murphy, in later testimony, attested to Murphy's

Pearl River to offer classes at Bay High

BY DENA BISNETTE

Pearl River Community College will begin offering classes at Bay Senior High in March.

Dr. Ted Alexander, president of the community college, addressed the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board Monday, explaining how the high school was chosen as a site for the classes.

Alexander said the school has seen a "significant increase" in the number of students from Hancock County who attend the main campus in Poplarville, as well as the vocational-technical type classes offered at the Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center at Stennis Airport.

However, an increased interest in the more academic college core courses has been found among people who are high school graduates or have already done some college work but are unable to commute for some reason, Alexander said.

He said classes at Bay High will be designed primarily to meet the needs of the latter group.

Dr. Willis Lott, dean of academic affairs, said registration will be March 6.

The classes will be set up on the quarter system with 10 weeks each quarter for classes, one week for final examinations and registration every 12th week.

Lott said the new program is expected to start with six classes, such as English composition and some of the higher math courses. There will have to be 10 paid students per class for the subject to be offered.

The dean added that information will be sent home with high school students regarding a summer program the community college wants to offer at Bay High. Any student who has completed 15 or more high school credits will be eligible for the summer program if his school principal provides a letter of recommendation.

He said the college plans to begin advertising in February.

Correction

Sunday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo included a story which incorrectly stated that the run-off for the Bay St. Louis City Council special election would be two weeks after the election.

Under special election rules, the run-off is one week after the special election. The Echo regrets the error.

This is the time of the year when Girl Scouts will be taking orders for Girl Scout cookies.

It is one of the big fund raisers for Girl Scouts across the nation and we hope the local girls are successful this year.

The orders for Girl Scout cookies will be taken until January 21.

For information, call Mrs. John Holmes, neighborhood cookie chairman at 467-3710.

We hope the young girls will receive many orders, because proceeds from the sales will help continue the many great Girl Scout activities in our area.

On Tuesday the qualified electors of the City of Bay St. Louis will go to the polls and elect a Councilman-At-Large and in District One will also select a Councilman.

It is hoped that all qualified electors will take the time to vote on Tuesday for this special election.

Don't forget to remind your friends and neighbors about the special election.

Bay St. Louis is operated with a mayor and five councilmen, so this is a very important election as one third of the governing body will be elected.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Gaming commission, cruise ship bills introduced in Senate, House

Gulf Coast advocates of legalized gambling are getting some help from unexpected legislative quarters at the current session of the Legislature.

Already in the hopper is a Senate bill to create a state gaming commission and a House measure which would legalize gambling on cruise ships in Mississippi Sound.

What's quite interesting is that neither measure was authorized by a Coast legislator.

Sen. Robert Monty of Greenville, a freshman in the Mississippi upper chamber, sponsored the measure to establish a five-member State Gaming Control Commission to regulate lawful forms of gambling and clamp down on any unauthorized gambling.

Monty's measure would make the gaming agency an arm of the State Tax Commission, similar to the present Alcohol Beverage Control Commission. "This is not a gambling bill per se," said Monty. "Once you had the commission in place you could plug into it any forms of gambling made lawful by subsequent legislation."

Under Monty's measure, bingo games which are now legal if operated by a non-profit organizations would be subject to the commission's regulations as would raffles.

The cruise ship measure was introduced by State Rep. Tommy Walman of McComb, chairman of the influential House Ways and Means Committee. It is a carbon copy of a bill passed last year in the House that later died in a Senate committee.

At the time, the gambling ship Europa Star was operating out of Biloxi under a shaky state court injunction.

But last November, after U.S. Customs authorities held that the vessel must reach waters within federal jurisdiction before permitting gambling, the owners decided it was not economically feasible and moved the ship back to Pensacola.

Under Walman's bill, a cruise ship could open up gambling in Mississippi Sound, once it was underway. The measure contains a referendum feature, requiring a port city where a cruise ship docks to hold a referendum on the question if any qualified elector petitioned for an election.

The McComb lawmaker said he had not discussed the cruise ship bill with Coast legislators who sponsored the measure last year. "I just put it in to make sure we had it in there (the hopper) since we have shorter deadlines this session," he said.

Although the bill went to the Ways and Means Committee, it contains no licensing provisions, or fees and taxes on ship-board gambling operations.

Monty's bill creating a gaming commission has enlisted the backing of Sen. Tommy Gollott of Biloxi who said he agreed with the Greenville lawmaker that establishment of a state gaming commission "has to be the beginning point."

Gollott plans to introduce his own gaming commission measure this week which will also include provisions for gambling on board a cruise ship once it is underway and one mile offshore.

It would require vessels to be of U.S. registry and would put a $50,000 license fee on each ship plus a percentage of the gambling take, to be divided among the city, county and state for education.

"If something isn't done pretty quick to revive the tourist industry on the Coast, more businesses and hotels are going to close up," said Gollott. "That's going to mean that the homeowners will have to pick up the tab for taxes."

Gollott said there will be large gambling cruise ships operating from ports on the Mississippi Gulf Coast "whether we do anything or not. But the question is: Are we going to have a machinery to control it and derive some revenues for the state and local governments?"

Monty agreed that Mississippi "with over 60 miles of coastline shouldn't sit around with our thumbs in our ears and let these tourist dollars go to other states."

He said that the Alcohol Beverage Control Commission has been very effective in controlling alcohol sales in Mississippi, and this gaming commission is going to be even tougher on anyone who operates outside commission regulations.

The Greenville lawmaker added: "I think I hear what the people are saying, which is that they want some forms of gambling established in Mississippi."

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

By Senator
Gene Taylor

After convening the 1989 Session of the Legislature at noon on Jan. 3, the Senate wasted no time in tackling some controversial issues during the opening days.

The governor laid out his legislative agenda which focused on his plans for reorganization of the executive branch of government, and two days later, a Senate committee took action on portions of the reorganization program. During the week, the Senate also passed bills dealing with reform of the civil justice laws and heard a briefing on the state's fiscal situation.

Reorganization

The Senate Select Committee on Government Reorganization passed a sweeping 300-page bill which affects the organization of numerous agencies. The full Senate is expected to have the opportunity to vote on the bill this week. Before listing the various proposals included in this bill, let me emphasize that this bill does not include closure of the charity hospitals, equity funding for education, nor consolidation of school districts. There are separate bills dealing with each of these issues.

The following are the various proposals in the bill as it presently stands. I would like to remind you that the bill can be changed by the amendment process to delete or change any of the proposals.

—The Parole Board would be changed to full-time status.

—A Department of Human Services would be created to encompass Vocational Rehabilitation, Rehabilitation for the Blind, Welfare, and the Human Development Office of Federal-State Programs. A policy-making board would be appointed by the Governor. The Commissioner of the department would be appointed by the Governor from three nominations made by the board.

—A State Transportation Department would be created to have jurisdiction over the Highway Department, State Aid road program, Aeronautics Commission, transportation functions of the Department of Energy and Transportation, and the weight enforcement division of the State Tax Commission. The department would be headed by the three elected highway commissioners who will appoint the executive director.

—The state parks would be transferred from the Department of Natural Resources to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

—The Department of Youth Services would be transferred to the Department of Corrections.

—The Children's Rehabilitation Center would be transferred to the State Board of Health.

—The Employment Security Commission is changed to an appeals council and the staff functions of it and the Department of Job Development and Training would be transferred to the Department of Economic and Community Development.

—The State Tax Commission's duties would be assumed by a Department of Revenue with the executive director appointed by the Governor. An appeals board would be created to hear appeals from decisions of the executive director.

—The duties of the Veterans' Home Purchase Board would be transferred to the Veterans' Affairs Board, and county veteran service officers must be certified by that board.

—A two percent assessment would be made upon special funds to defray the cost of government to these special fund agencies, such as the Medical Licensure Board, Cosmetology Board, etc. The assessment on Highway Department funds would be limited to non-construction funds.

—Agencies are given more flexibility regarding reorganization of staffs and moving of positions which presently must be approved by the Personnel Board as long as their actions follow state personnel policy.

Tort Reform

The Senate passed three bills which deal with the reform of civil justice laws, commonly known as tort reform:

—The statute of limitations for suits which a statute of limitations is not specified is lowered from six to two years. The statute of limitations is the time after discovery of a problem within which a lawsuit may be filed.

—Suits from other states where the statute of limitations has expired may not be filed in Mississippi just because the statute of limitations here is longer.

—In cases where judgments are awarded, the judge is to decide on the amount of pre-judgment interest to be awarded and from what date the interest is to accrue.

For example, if the judgment is $500,000, the judge could award the winning party 10 percent interest on the amount to accrued from the date the suit was filed. Some suits drag on for years, and this bill would compensate the winners in the suit for not having the money owed them during those years.

Fiscal Affairs

The good news presented by our State Economist is that Mississippi is enjoying the second longest period of economic expansion in its history. This growth period began in February of 1983, and the economic experts are not predicting a recession for the present or the next budget year. However, they are cautious, as always, because no one can really predict what will happen during the next 18 months when the fiscal year for which we are setting the state budget will end. During this period of growth since 1983, 150,000 jobs have been added to the state's economy and the unemployment rate has dropped from 14 percent to 8.5 percent.

As for the present fiscal year, unexpected growth allowed the revenue estimate to be raised by $34 million, and the experts are forecasting about a 5.5 percent increase in revenue for next year. However, this new money has already been committed for funding built-in increases in the budget mandated by passage of the teacher pay increase during the 1988 legislative session.

The Gulf Coast delegation of the Senate and the House of Representatives will be meeting together regularly this year to develop and follow through on legislation of importance to the Coast area. One topic of discussion at our initial meetings during the first week was the Tideland situation.

To briefly remind you of how bills become law, they must first be passed by the committee to which they are assigned, then by both houses of the Legislature, and then receive approval of the Governor.

I would be glad to hear your input on any legislation during the year, and you may write to me at the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, MS 39215 or call 359-3770 and I will return your call as soon as possible.

'Sneaky' congressional pay raise deserves to be voted down

Senator Thad Cochran
Senator Trent Lott
Rep. Larkin Smith

Dear Congressman:

I write to express my concern regarding the pay raises proposed by the presidential commission which amount to approximately 51 percent of present salaries. I am concerned, not only by the amount, but by the means utilized to accomplish them.

The proposed amounts which would bring your salary to approximately $135,000 per year is outrageous at a time when your first concern should be a reduction in the annual deficit and the public debt.

The raises may represent only a fraction of the overall deficit, but they are ridiculous when compared to the 4 percent COLA raises afforded social security, military and industry workers.

You can take a step toward persuading your constituents you are serious about your stand on the budget deficit by introducing a bill to repeal the legislation which established this commission.

Your taxpayers know this commission was an attempt to raid the treasury without requiring any member of Congress to shoulder the responsibility.

The efforts of the commission to compare legislators to big league baseball players who earn $500,000 per year was farcical. What comparison will they draw next time? Television news anchor persons? Movie stars? Who?

If the members of Congress do not have the "guts" to stand up and state publicly the salaries to which they think they are entitled they do not deserve the respect and support of the people they were elected to represent. Please don't be party to another "sneaky" pay raise. I urge you to repeal the legislation enabling the pay raise commission, and hereafter vote for or against your salary increases like honest and courageous representatives.

Mississippi health care must have single standard

Wouldn't it be great if all Mississippians had equal access to good health care? Doesn't that seem only fair?

That is not the case today. The services we offer do not go far enough. Not enough people have access to those services. We do not pay health care providers enough to provide those services.

We need to establish a single standard of care for all people throughout Mississippi without regard to the size of their pocketbook or where they live. Some have suggested that we build a system of state hospitals throughout Mississippi, so that all low income people have one close by.

But can we afford that, and do we really want to separate or segregate low-income people into one set of hospitals while everyone else goes to a separate set of hospitals?

Moreover, the state is losing $28 million a year in federal funds that could be earned if that charity hospital money was going into Medicaid. That is money that would go to the charity hospital cities and every corner of this state—from Northeast Mississippi and the Delta to Southwest Mississippi and the Coast.

I have proposed what 48 other states in this country do. Why not improve our Medicaid program so that all our citizens' medical needs are met through one, better health care delivery system.

This method is more effective, less costly and it does relegate poor people to a different class of medical care.

There is something else very important that you should know. Federal law requires that any hospital which receives Medicare funds—and that is virtually all hospitals—must accept a person with a medical emergency including a woman in labor.

That means a person with a medical emergency cannot be turned away from a hospital. That is the law, and I am committed to seeing that it is enforced.

Secondly, we have a widespread system of community health centers that can treat people with non-emergency conditions. The proposal to expand Medicaid by more than $100 million will help ensure

The President's Column

Recently, I submitted to Congress my final budget. It is a responsible plan which cuts the deficit without touching Social Security, weakening defense or reducing benefits to the needy. And the best news is that this budget proves it can be done without raising your taxes.

Our growing economy will, in the next fiscal year, produce $84 billion in new revenues with no increase in tax rates. Since the whole economic pie is expanding, the Federal Government's slice grows along with the private sector. Raising taxes would be the surest way to kill the economic goose that lays the golden eggs, so I leave as I came—dead set against any new taxes.

And even if there were a tax increase, history shows that Congress would almost certainly spend the additional money. It would not be used to reduce the deficit; it would just mean that you had to pay for an even bigger government. And now, with an estimated $84 billion in new revenues coming in, we can both reduce the deficit and increase federal spending.

By combining new revenues with previously scheduled reductions and savings in other areas, priority programs will grow nearly $50 billion.

There are more funds for air safety, fighting crime, housing the poor and the war on drugs. Funds for AIDS research and prevention is increased by 24 percent, and money to clean up toxic waste goes up by a fifth.

We also increased funds for the science and space programs and for basic biomedical research. And student aid funds are increased again, bringing it to a level 83 percent higher than where it stood in 1980.

Real defense spending is increased by 2 percent. This is a small increase, but an important one—the price of peace and security for America. Through strength we achieved greater realism in the U.S.-Soviet relationship and breakthroughs in arms reduction. Our defense budget will enable us to continue on this path.

Let us remember that despite the internal reforms in the Soviet Union, they are modernizing their weapons at a rapid pace, spending a far larger share of gross national product on weapons than the United States does.

Spending on Medicare and Medicaid will increase by $10 billion in the next fiscal year.

But if the past is any guide, the headlines will claim that we have actually cut funding. Well, that is not so.

In Washington, when spending goes up, but less than had been projected, they call that a cut even though more of your tax dollars are being spent than ever before. With Medicare, we have simply limited the increase in payments to providers of services. There is no effect on the people who receive the benefits.

So, my fiscal year 1990 budget provides for the needy, does not raise taxes, and by controlling the growth in spending, reduces the deficit next year by nearly $70 billion.

This not only meets the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction target, it reduces the deficit even further and puts us on track to a balanced budget and a modest surplus by fiscal year 1993. This budget is a realistic program which protects the working families of America, provides adequate support for those who depend on Government, and helps assure America's prosperity in the years to come.

I have often spoken of the rising incomes Americans have enjoyed in recent years, but one group lags behind. According to a new report by the bipartisan commission on federal salaries, real pay for top level government jobs have fallen by 35 percent since 1969 due to inflation, while private sector pay has outpaced inflation.

So my budget includes higher pay for vital positions ranging from judges to scientists to elected officials. This increase is still less than what was lost to inflation. Even after this raise, the real income of a circuit court judge will be 29 percent less than in 1969.

The cost of these increases will be absorbed in the budget without slowing progress on the deficit and we will be getting something important in return. You see, when salaries are too low it is hard to attract and keep America's best in government.

Federal judges have been leaving the bench in record numbers, partly because they are paid less than junior members of some law firms.

The National Institutes of Health that fight cancer and other grave diseases have vacancies for senior researchers that have been empty for ten years due to poor pay. Also troubling is that some officials, particularly in Congress, now supplement their income with special interest honoraria payments.

My support for the pay increase rests on my firm belief that payments undermine the integrity of our government and should be abolished. We must be willing to pay for excellence in government or risk a government run only by people of wealth or by those beholden to special interests.

Picayune livestock dealer charged

Big Spring Cattle Company, Picayune, and its owners, have been charged with fraudulently increasing weights of livestock.

A U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) official said the partners in the firm, Lee M. Johnson, Lewis T. McCoy, and Herbert W. Gentry, all of Picayune, are also charged with failing to keep accurate records in order to conceal the resale of the livestock at fraudulently increased weights.

The firm buys feeder cattle throughout Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee and sells mainly in Texas and Arizona.

Calvin W. Watkins, deputy administrator of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said the respondents have a right to a hearing on the federal administrative charges filed by USDA under authority of the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

If the charges are proven, they will be placed under a cease and desist order, similar to a permanent injunction. They could also be barred from business and ordered to pay a civil penalty.

The P&S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice, and payment protection law.

COOKING BY THE BOOK

By Katy McGuire
Caire

"One thing to remember about cooking any fowl, wild or domestic, is that a good scrub with cut lemon, never water, will make it tenderer and will seal in its flavor," according to MFK Fisher, food writer par excellence for decades and still "going strong."

I found this advice long, long years ago in her amusing and instructive book, "How to Cook A Wolf" and have followed it through many a year and many a cooking session, with excellent and tasty results.

"Another thing is that a mixture of butter and oil or fat is the best one for braising it: it seems to make an evenner and more delicious flavor," was another valuable maxim.

That advice, of course, holds true today, just as in those wartime days (World War II) when "How to Cook A Wolf" was published in 1942—and believe me, it was my bookish bible!

As a young wife and quite recent mother of two little sons, I was given a copy of "Wolf"—which was geared to combat wartime shortages and such and still turn out tasty meals.

And, today, in these so-inflationary times, the book, somewhat the worse for wear more than four decades later, with splashes and marks on the pages of my favorite recipes, is as helpful to this cook today as it was then.

Of course, I've had to make some adjustments—as in the recipe which calls for "15 cents worth of hamburger!" MFK Fisher has written many another book and article, but "Wolf" remains one of my favorites through the years. And it was an amusing coincidence a few days ago, that, with a pot of what I still call "Fisher's Chicken" simmering on the stove, I sat down to finish reading that day's New Orleans Times Picayune-States Item.

And, what did I find in Gene Bourg's "Eating Out" column but a mention of MFK Fisher's "Dubious Honors" (North Point Press, $19.95)—a collection of introductions she has written over the years to her own books and those of others.

"Wonderful little essays on a potpourri of gastronomic subjects" said Bourg, adding that "To call Mrs. Fisher a food writer is to call Niagara a fountain. She is, to this reader, the most literate and discriminating writer on food in the English language."

With that sentiment it's difficult to disagree!

And, if a copy of "Dubious Honors" comes across my desk from the publishers for review, I'll share it with you in one of my columns.

Meanwhile, if you'd like the recipe for "that chicken dish" here is:

FISHER'S CHICKEN
In her own word, "Cut the chicken up, scrub with lemon and season it. Try a little cinnamon and allspice with the omnipresent salt and pepper."

"After it is brown, put in a generous handful of chopped herbs (parsley, rosemary, basil, thyme, whatever you and your whims pluck or purchase) and a minced clove of garlic.

Add a cup or so of chopped tomato, either fresh or canned, and some dry white wine. Stir the whole thing, cover, and let simmer until tender.

On occasion, I have added fresh mushrooms or ripe olives, or both, to this dish, which I serve with rice. Sometimes I add almonds or bell (green) pepper and chopped green onions. It's one of those savory dishes that are equally at home for family dinner or all-out party!

Or, as MFK Fisher herself says, it's one of those "naturals" which take their own dignified place in any meal, whether it is served in midsummer on a breathless balcony, or in the windy months beside a fire. Incidentally, MFK Fisher is Mary Frances Kennedy Fisher—she has as many names as I! (Copyright, 1989, Katharine D. M. Caire)

New Orleans Museum features Laughlin exhibit

An exhibition of 34 post-war works by American photographers from the collection of Clarence John Laughlin are on display at the New Orleans Museum of Art through March 1.

The Clarence John Laughlin Collection: New Orleans and Beyond, is the final exhibition of a three-part series drawn from Laughlin's personal collection which he donated to the museum in 1982, three years before his death.

On display are photographs by New Orleanians William Abbot, Kenin Barre, Harriet Blum, D. Eric Bookhardt, Charles de la Gueronniere, Philip Denman, Thomas Jimison, John Lawrence and Michael P. Smith.

The exhibition also features work by photographers throughout the United States, many of whom, such as Helena Chapellin Wilson (Chicago) and Merry Moor Winnett (Greensboro, N.C.) cite Laughlin as a major influence. Laughlin's collection also includes nine photographs by Carlotta Corpron (1901-1988), "designs in light" as she would call them, four of which are on display at NOMA.

"Laughlin's collection has become the mainstay of the permanent collection, not only for its size and breadth, but also as a very personal encapsulation of the photography done in America from the 1950s through 1970s," said Nancy Barrett, NOMA curator of photography.

The collection is on view in the museum's second-floor Laughlin Gallery of Photography. At the close of the exhibition, Selections from the Laughlin Collection will be drawn into an exhibition to be shown at other American museums. For information, call (504) 488-2631.

GOOD FOOD BUYS

Casseroles make economical menu

To cut your food bill, serve casseroles more often. Two advantages of casserole meals are: 1) You can make them ahead of time and freeze until needed. Make several—one for now and one for freezing and use later. 2) You can use inexpensive food in casseroles. Choose those that look and taste good together and that your family likes. Prepare large enough quantities of meats and vegetables that you'll have leftovers to use in casseroles.

You can save fuel energy by baking several casseroles at one time—one of meat, a vegetable and a dessert.

The casserole meal can be plain or fancy, whichever suits your plans. Casserole meals are the perfect answer for busy homemakers. If part of the family is late, the casserole remains in good condition.

A casserole may be the meat dish, the vegetable or even the dessert. Basically, a casserole consists of a protein food (meat, fish, poultry, cheese, eggs, dried beans) combined with a sauce, canned soup or other liquid. Frequently, a starchy food such as noodles, rice or potatoes is added making the principle ingredient go a long way.

Good ingredients make a good casserole, but you can save pennies by selecting food appropriate for your use. Canned tomatoes to go into casseroles need not be fancy, or the most expensive. Shape isn't important in most casserole recipes, so there's no need to pay for it. Grated tuna usually costs less than chunk-style, but the flavor is the same.

Here are a few points you should consider for successful casseroles. Use foods that go together from the standpoint of flavor, texture and color; keep pieces of food in identifiable sizes and shapes; remember that the casserole will absorb some of the liquid during baking, so don't make the sauce too thick; use imagination in seasoning—try various herbs and spices; vary toppings—fluffy mashed potatoes, cooked rice, cornbread batter, ready-to-bake biscuits or rolls, roasted almonds; investigate the wide variety of canned soups for added flavor and ease of preparation.

ration. Compare cost of soups to white sauce made with liquid of the vegetables used.

You don't need fancy recipes and menus for easy casseroles or oven meals. Just check up on foods in good supply selling at the most attractive prices at your market. Decide which ones you want—then it's merely a matter of combining.

Casserole recipes are not precise. It's up to you to add or subtract seasonings and other ingredients according to what your family prefers and what's on hand.

Convenient packaged casserole mixes from market shelves offer a short cut and permit you to create your own special dish with the addition of ground beef, cooked cubes, meat or hard-cooked eggs.

During the days ahead and year round—enjoy lots of good eating from casserole dishes.

Smile again.

Don't let a drinking or drug problem rob you of happiness.

Caffeine addicts deny symptoms of addiction

If you don't think that you're addicted to caffeine, try to stop injecting it. Chances are, you'll get irritable, grouchy, have headaches and feel fatigued.

It is estimated that about 72 million Americans consume more than their 'fair share' of caffeine a day. About 36 million of them suffer from chronic caffeineism—an addiction that carries the potential of producing a myriad of psychological and medical conditions.

"Caffeine is a cheap and easy rush," says Dr. Andrew H. Mebane, a staff physician in the department of psychiatry at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans. "We drink it at the workplace because it makes us more productive. We rely on it to suppress our appetite. We drink it to be sociable. It's an American tradition."

A sure sign of caffeineism is evidenced in the individual who boasts that he or she can drink a cup of coffee before bedtime and fall right to sleep. "That's the tip-off," says Mebane. "They're the last to relate any symptoms to caffeine injection."

Typical responses of the body to too much caffeine are irritability, agitation, headaches, insomnia, lethargy, fatigue, yawning, decreased concentration and sometimes depression. Unusual neurological symptoms can be seen, mimicking brain tumors or multiple sclerosis. These responses often develop over a period of years of moderate to heavy caffeine use and most commonly when caffeine levels drop in a person's blood stream.

Although most people are aware of caffeine's connection with anxiety and panic symptoms, depression and depression-like symptoms are more subtle in their relationship to caffeine, says Mebane. Caffeine, specifically chronic caffeineism, may mimic a depressive disorder or complicate a condition and its origin. It may also antagonize or adversely interact with prescribed medications given for depression.

Sources of caffeine in today's society can be found everywhere. Not only is it found in beverages—coffee, tea and soft drinks—but it is also in many prescription medications, such as analgesics and cold preparations, as well as over-the-counter stimulants, appetite suppressants, and, of course, chocolate. Sometimes people unknowingly switch from one to the other, thinking they have eliminated the influence of caffeine.

There is little doubt that some people become addicted to the stimulant effect of coffee and experience withdrawal symptoms, most typically a headache, without their usual dose. Mebane calls it the 'weekend headache' when people away from the workplace suddenly experience debilitating headaches at home.

In most workplaces, the coffee pot is a fixture. Workers pour themselves a fresh cup without thinking. But, at home, they consume less or no coffee at all, leading to what can be a major withdrawal situation. Mebane says one or two cups of coffee or some other form of caffeine normally resolves this condition. A 'dose' of caffeine is about 100 mg in an average cup of coffee and about 50 mg in a typical serving of cola or tea.

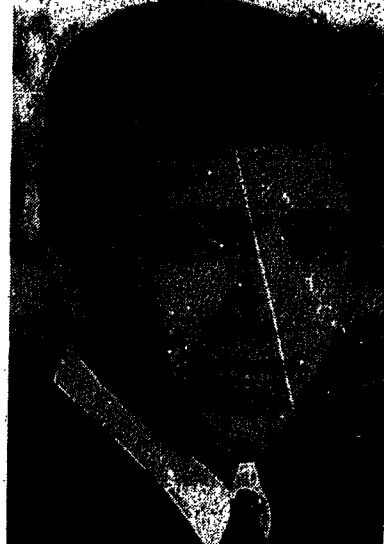

Because of caffeine's interaction with GABA, a neurotransmitter in the brain, the body's own anxiety-relieving systems are reduced. Caffeine also blocks the brain's opiate receptors, thus preventing the body from properly managing pain. Unless caffeine intake is reduced, even medicines like anti-depressants or tranquilizers will be ineffective due to caffeine's negative influence.

Basically, three complications may be seen when medicating a patient with undiagnosed caffeineism, says Mebane. "First, higher levels of medications may be needed because of the directly offsetting, negative effects of caffeine. There may also be a lack of response to the prescribed medications because of these effects. Increased side effects are also a concern when caffeine is combined with certain medications."

Obviously, the secret to offsetting the effects of caffeine in the body is to stop consuming it and switch to non-caffeine substitutes. If not, reduce the amount injected. Mebane says that people who are in the 'chronic' category should consider a gradual adjustment. "Start with one or two fewer cups of coffee a day. Each day, increase that number," he says. Although you may experience some form of withdrawal, be patient. Within a month's time, those withdrawal effects should disappear.

statement.

Murphy said a brake line removed from Joseph's car at Ben Hille's fell in two when removed by a mechanic.

The line, which had been sent to the Mississippi Crime Lab, was introduced as evidence. It appeared to have been crimped, according to Murphy.

Kenny, testifying as an expert in automobile crash reconstruction, said he had determined Mrs. Joseph's car was traveling 49 miles per hour when it hit the utility pole.

"When you told Mr. Joseph his wife was dead didn't he scream 'No, no, no! She wasn't hurt that bad. Oh my God!'" Rose asked Murphy.

"He didn't scream," Murphy said.

Rose, in further cross-examination, attempted to introduce information indicating that Murphy had a personal vendetta against Joseph because he had represented an officer that had been fired by Murphy.

"Didn't you tell Mr. Joseph on the phone that you wouldn't have a two-bit Harrison County lawyer coming over here and telling you how to run your job?" Rose asked.

Murphy said he did not recall ever having a conversation with Joseph, that he first learned of him after the fatal collision.

"Didn't you tell Wendy Joseph, Diana's natural daughter, adopted by Joseph, 'Your father murdered your mother and we are going to get him?' Didn't you tell Wendy 'David Scafidi took your mother's purse and we're going to get him, too?'"

"No," Murphy replied.

"Didn't you ask Wendy if her father had ever sexually molested her? Didn't she say that her father had never sexually molested her?" Rose asked.

Justice Griffin Memorial services set for Sunday

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

A Memorial service has been set for Sunday, January 15 at 3 p.m., First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis for Mississippi Supreme Court Justice J. Ruble Griffin who died in Jackson on December 29.

Pam Metzler, Hancock County Circuit Court clerk; Dr. Nathan Barber, pastor of First Baptist Church; and U.S. District Judge Dan M. Russell have been coordinating the Memorial services.

Justice Griffin was a resident of Bay St. Louis since 1965 and an active member of the First Baptist Church.

Justice Griffin was a former law partner of Sam Favre in Bay St. Louis and served as a Circuit Court Judge for 13 years prior to being appointed a Supreme Court Justice, Southern District in July, 1986. He was elected as the Democratic nominee to the position the month before and was unopposed in the general election.

"There will be a color guard from the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 and we will have speakers from all phases of law enforcement, government, professional, judicial and friends of Judge (Justice) Griffin," Metzler said, in addition to Rev. Barber.

A reception will follow in the church's fellowship hall following the Memorial services.

Bailey acquires interest in Hancock Mortgage

Leo W. Seal Jr., president of Hancock Bank, and Kent E. Lovelace Jr., president of Hancock Mortgage Corp., have announced that effective Jan. 6, Bailey Mortgage Co. has acquired Hancock Bank's interest in the Hancock Mortgage Corp.

The 22-year-old company, headquartered in Gulfport, also has mortgage offices in Jackson as well as New Orleans, Metairie and Slidell.

Under the terms of sale, the company will continue to operate independently with Lovelace as chief executive officer; however, the name will be changed to Equitable Mortgage Corp., as Hancock Bank and its personnel will no longer be involved.

"The association with Bailey Mortgage will provide us many new opportunities to serve the home-buying public," stated Lovelace. "This transaction will provide us with the capabilities to significantly expand our markets in the Southeast and Southwest."

Bailey Mortgage Co., based in Jackson, has offices in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia. Bailey Mortgage is one of the top mortgage loan servicing firms in the nation with a loan servicing portfolio of $1.3 billion, representing over 46,000 customers in 26 states.

"The matter is far more complex than it seems."

Gex found that several sections of the Mississippi Code provide procedures for the abolition of school districts or the alteration of their boundaries, establishment of a consolidated district and its board, and the establishment of a consolidated school serving two districts, but a number of legal questions that remain unanswered could result in problems.

Young BWYC sailors take Optimist Championship

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Not to be outdone by the award-winning adult sailing program of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, the junior members are charting their own successful course with a recent win in Florida competition.

Top honors in the Championship and Consolation Divisions of the Gulf Coast Team Racing Championships in St. Petersburg were earned by Optimist Dinghy sailors from Bay-Waveland Yacht Club and Southern Yacht Club in New Orleans.

St. Petersburg, "Optimist Capital of the U. S.," has served as host club for the annual competition, repeatedly winning first place until this year. Their young sailors are directed by John Jennings, U. S. Olympic team coach for 10 years.

Thirteen teams participated in the January 7-8 weekend event.

The Optimist Dinghy program is a relatively new one for BWYC, with the first of the 8-foot boats arriving in 1984. The program is an excellent one for beginning sailors, according to team coach Rod Stieffel, who stated that successful efforts can lead to world championship competition.

Attaining a perfect 9-0 record were Mallory Mestayer, BWYC; John Meade, Alice Manard and Ward Cromwell, all of SYC, of Team One. The group won all five of their qualifying round races and four in the Championship Division.

Mallory crossed the finish line first in seven of the nine races, and logged two second place finishes. She is an eighth grade student at Our Lady Academy and is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Mestayer of Bay St. Louis.

Team Two, composed of four 10-year olds, went 3-2 in the qualifying round and finished 1-2-3-4 in the two Consolation Division races.

BWYC skippers were Caroline Weems, daughter of Mrs. Wayne Peterson of Pass Christian and a fifth grade student at St. Paul Elementary School; Sanders Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kane, and Alan Uram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Uram, of Bay St. Louis, both fifth grade students at Coast Episcopal Elementary School; and Daniel Meade of SYC.

Stieffel is a former Olympic trialist in Soling, a Prince of Wales finalist, and winner in both the Flying Scot North American Championship and Lipton races on several occasions.

He feels that starting the children in sailing competition at an early age strengthens the BWYC program. The Stieffel family is proof of this fact, as they boast many accomplished sailors, who literally "grew up" on the water—and have provided the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club with many sailing titles. "I am extremely proud to be part of the (Optimist) program," he said. "For such a young program, these kids have produced such great results." He also commended the parents for their support.

"This is an opportunity for family interaction and travel, and for these children to make friends from all over the country," stated parent Marilyn Mestayer.

During the past year, some of the children have sailed in the North American Championships in Quebec; the Nationals in Annapolis, Md.; the Long Island Sound Championship in Shelter Island, N. Y. and races in Miami, Fla. and New Orleans in addition to St. Petersburg.

BHS Tigers fall to Tomcats

Lady Tigers No. 2 in District

By Kanta' Haynes
BHS Correspondent

The Tigers and Lady Tigers traveled to Stone County to take on the Tomcats in a hard-played defensive ball game Dec. 4.

The Bay High Tigers took on the Tomcats with an impressive floor game, but left the score in the Tomcats' favor, 78-35.

The leading basket makers for the Tigers were Mike Scharp with eight points, five steals and five rebounds; David Weems with seven points; junior Cedric Walker nailed six points and five caroms for the Tigers. Junior Bruce Jones netted three points.

The Tigers out-rebounded the Tomcats 20-17.

Leading the way for the Tomcats were M. Hinton with 16 points; D. Galloway with 14 points; and B. Wilson with 12 points.

In the girls' round of action, the Lady Tigers out-rebounded the Lady Tomcats 40-39. The Lady Tigers led the score board with a 45-41 win over the Lady Tomcats.

The leading bucket maker for this varsity contest was senior Deborah Deloach with 16 points and eight rebounds. Assisting Deloach was guard Kinta Ladner with 14 points and five rebounds.

Other Lady Tiger bucket makers were Stacy Sheppard with nine points; Tunisia McKay with four points; and sophomore Kecia Walker with four points and seven caroms. Sophomore Vida Laneaux tipped in two points for the Lady Tigers' win over the Lady Tomcats.

Leading the way for the Lady Tomcats was T. Evans with 25 points.

Coach Michael Ladner stated, "We are happy to win the game because it is a district game. It is a good start for the second part of the year."

CEHS soccer team loses to Jackson Prep

Coast Episcopal High School Raider soccer opened last week with a 5 to 1 loss to Jackson Prep.

The Raiders finished 5-1 in the 1988 season losing only to Jackson Prep.

Coach Paul Montjoy feels this year's squad is even stronger and, with only two starters lost to graduation, the maturity and experience contributed by the new players is more than adequate.

Billy and Nathan Guice are expected to again be offensive standouts and the addition of senior Beau Lambert and Junior Jamie White will shore up the defensive.

Coach Montjoy feels the recognition of soccer as a varsity sport within the Mississippi Private School Association will continue to highlight local prep talent in the sport of soccer.

Bay Youth Soccer begins spring season

The Bay Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) Spring Soccer Season opened Saturday, Jan. 7, under beautiful blue skies and warm weather with two Under-14 boys' games.

The VFW/Kim Sidekicks, coached by Bernard Tusa, defeated the Ocean Springs Leathernecks by a score of 6-0.

In a second afternoon game, the Lake One Varsity Football team, coached by Jerry Ross, defeated the Biloxi Screaming Eagles by a score of 4-0. Both games were dominated by BAYS soccer skills and by precision passing.

Games will continue on both the afternoon and evening sessions. BAYS teams contributed to the success of the night games. Both teams are scheduled to play at the Summary fields on coming Saturday, Jan. 14, at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., respectively, in their second games of the season.

The spring season for Under-8, Under-10, and Under-12 age groups will also begin this coming Saturday, Jan. 14, and continue through April 2. Everyone is invited to come out and see this exciting game played this Saturday.

Games start at 9 a.m. and continue all day. Applications for Under-14 girls, Under-16 boys and Under-19 boys will continue to be taken until Feb. 13.

First out-of-state trip nets victory for PRC

The Pearl River Central Blue Devils, in their first out-of-state trip, have won the Northeast Eastside Optimist Club Tournament in Macon, Ga.

Coach Roland Ladner's roundballers started out by beating the host team, Northeast, 73-72 in overtime.

Mark Montgomery and Reginald McNair were credited with saving the game; McNair hit a pair of foul shots with only 11 seconds left and Montgomery followed up with a three-point shot at the buzzer to grab the tie.

Pearl River almost committed instant replay on when the Blue Devils nailed their second opponent, the Greene County Tigers, the same way.

James Mitchell had given Pearl River a 66-65 lead with about 16 seconds left, but Greene County disrupted the Blue Devil plans by getting a three-pointer from the corner.

Since Pearl River had no time-outs left, they had to move the ball down the court. When the buzzer sounded, Montgomery was in the air again with another three pointer, enabling the Mississippi team to take a 69-68 victory.

Ladner, a coach since 1959 who went back to working with high school boys this year after a four-year stint at Phillips Junior College and several years heading girls' teams, now has an 832-251 record as a boys' coach, with more than 1,000 combined career victories.

Mississippi waters closed to king mackerel fishing

King mackerel fishing in Mississippi waters is closed until July 1.

The state Wildlife Conservation Commission voted to close state waters to king mackerel fishing on the recommendation of Joe Gill, acting director of the state Bureau of Marine Resources.

The closure is effective immediately and applies to recreational and commercial fishing.

Gill said he made the recommendation to cooperate with a National Marine Fisheries Service order on Dec. 17, closing federal waters to king mackerel fishing.

Mike Buchanan, bureau biologist, said National Marine Fisheries Service officials decided to close federal waters to king mackerel fishing because the total allowable catch (TAC) for king mackerel in the Gulf of Mexico had been reached.

The king mackerel TAC for recreational fishing is 2.31 million pounds. The TAC for commercial fishing is 1.09 million pounds.

While king mackerel usually don't frequent Mississippi waters during this time period, Buchanan said, the closure was necessary to be in compliance with the fishery management plan formed by the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council.

"It's necessary for us to close Mississippi waters to king mackerel fishing to provide more efficient and more consistent marine resource management and law enforcement," Buchanan said.

Hackett named new game chief

Ed Hackett of Meridian is the new chief of game for the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Hackett, 42, is a native of Kentucky and is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy with an undergraduate degree in engineering. He has a master's degree from Mississippi State University in wildlife ecology.

Joining the Department of Wildlife Conservation in 1978, Hackett has served as a wildlife biologist, an environmental coordinator, and most recently as a research coordinator. His primary area of emphasis in wildlife has been with the research and population dynamics of whitetail deer.

"Our agency is fortunate to have had within our ranks a number of qualified candidates applying for this job," Bureau of Fisheries and Wildlife director Jack Herring said.

"No doubt our selection of Ed Hackett as our new chief of game will be a positive influence on the future of our wildlife programs."

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE HUMMINBIRD PROS

by Larry Colombo

Planning a trip to a new lake this year? Increase your chances of success by first securing a topo map of that body of water.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has maps for all reservoirs governed by that body of water.

The U.S. Geological Survey in Reston, Virginia 22070, has topographic maps of most waterways east of the Mississippi. For Western reservoirs contact the U.S.G.S. in Denver, Colorado.

Small commercial maps of most major lakes and reservoirs are available from Lakes Illustrated, Mt. Vernon, Missouri 65712.

Fishin' Tips are presented by America's #1 Depth Sounder.

BAKA PYGMIES

In the heart of southeastern Cameroon, the Baka Pygmies hunt and gather food, unleash the secrets of the forest to prepare natural medicines and fashion utensils from the natural resources available to them.

'Baka: People of the Forest,' the season premiere of the 'National Geographic Specials' on ETV, offers a rare and poignant view of the lives of a small group of Pygmies who live in a remote rain forest in equatorial Africa.

Airing at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 18, this one-hour special is presented from the perspective of the Baka people and offers a unique opportunity to see not only how they live, but how they utilize their intimate knowledge of the forest to survive. The story is told in their own words through subtitles and allows the Baka people to tell their own story in words and actions.

PRC basketball teams look forward to new season

Pearl River Community College basketball coaches Peter Georgian and Polly Kirkland have different perspective on the new year.

For Kirkland's Lady Wildcats, the second half of the 1988-89 basketball season is the time to build on the first

MSU Lady Bulldogs to face Auburn

Mississippi State (8-6) Thursday faces the ultimate challenge as it takes on the Lady Tigers of Auburn (13-0), a team that could very well be ranked number one in the country this week after knocking off previously unbeaten and top-ranked Tennessee, 67-59, in Auburn, Ala.

MSU's Lady Bulldogs will then travel to Hattiesburg Friday for their second encounter this season with the Lady Golden Eagles of Southern Mississippi, who posted a mark of 6-2 going into Monday's game at South Carolina.

Earlier in the season (Dec. 8) Southern Mississippi handed MSU an 86-73 loss at MSU's Humphrey Coliseum. The game marked the most points scored against MSU this season and only one of two times MSU has been outrebounded during the current campaign. The Lady Golden Eagles won the battle of the boards, 35-34, but are trying to snap a two-game losing streak after losing at Northwestern Louisiana, 91-73 (Dec. 19), and their dropping a 78-75 decision Saturday at Florida State.

MSU's squad will follow with a trip to Knoxville, Tenn. where on Monday the Lady Bulldogs face one of the nation's premier teams in the Lady Volunteers of Tennessee. The Lady Vols sported an 11-1 record at the top of the week and were scheduled to meet Stetson (Jan. 9) and then to return home Saturday to host Ole Miss.

The game with Tennessee will wrap up a grueling four-game road stand that began this past Sunday (Jan. 8) with a 73-57 loss at Alabama-Birmingham. UAB keyed its victory by becoming only the second team this year to outrebound MSU.

The Lady Blazers won the battle of the boards, 37-29. The 29-rebound total marked the lowest of the year for MSU, a disappointment magnified by the fact that MSU earlier in the year (Dec. 2), defeated UAB, 71-65, in first-round action of Memphis State's Kitchens Unlimited Litton Classic.

The loss to UAB also brought to a halt MSU's two-game win streak manifested in an 86-68 win over Memphis State (Jan. 3, Starkville) and 64-53 win over Jackson State (Jan. 5, Starkville).

The 86 points scored versus Memphis State marked a season-high for the Lady Bulldogs and came as sweet revenge following MSU's 83-75 loss to Memphis State in the Dec. 3 title game of Memphis State's invitational. Additionally, junior forward Sherryl Robinson logged her MSU career high in scoring with 25 points, a total that also ranks as the highest registered by any MSU player this year. En route to her career high, Robinson hit a cool 10 or 13 shots taken from the field and 5 of 6 shots taken at the line.

The win over Jackson State marked the second MSU conquest of the Tigerettes this year. MSU knocked off the Tigerettes in Jackson 53-47.

half's successes, while the men's squad is having to start over again.

The Wildcats started the season with only two sophomores back from last season and struggled to a 5-10 record by the break. Over the break they lost the services of three players, including one of their sophomores, backup guard Scott Waldrop.

Waldrop did not report back after the holidays, while Terry Williams was dropped from the team and Horace Washington was lost for the year with a cracked knee, which he injured in practice.

"We've just been playing it by ear," Georgian said of the outlook for the rest of the season. "I really don't know what to expect from them."

He said the players are working hard, and are actually playing better as a unit since their return.

He said that Antonio Berry,

Larry Acker and Mark Stringer are doing well coming in off the bench for the Wildcats, which are now 6-11 on the season following Friday's 90-74 road win over Jeff Davis, Ala.

The lost experience and a depleted bench concern Georgian, however.

Kirkland said her team has lost nothing over the break, and it looked especially good in Friday's 103-69 win over Jeff Davis, Ala. on the road.

She added she was a little surprised by the team's showing since its return. "Generally after you've been off three weeks, you're slower," she said.

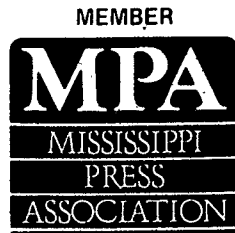

She said that instead of taking the edge off of her squad, it gave it time to regroup and gave some players a chance to heal their injuries.

Especially critical to the team is the recuperation of Antrice McGill, who was slowed by a back injury and strained vocal cords during the first half of the season. Since her return, the team's leading scorer has averaged 33 points per game, including school-record, 46-point performance against Jeff Davis.

Kirkland said the team is also cutting down on its turnovers. In Friday's game the Lady Cats gave the ball away 13 times, about ten less than their average. Kirkland said the players are anticipating each other better, and are not forcing their passes as much.

She added she hopes the squad continues to gradually improve and peak during the playoffs.

PRC basketball squad back on the road again

With the holiday season behind them, the Pearl River Community College basketball squads are getting back to work and wasting no time doing it.

Both the men's and women's teams will play two games this week, facing Holmes at home Thursday, and playing Jeff Davis, Ala. on the road Friday.

Peter Georgian, the men's coach, said the team reported back in good shape, and looked fairly sharp in workouts earlier this week. "I was really surprised," he said, adding the players had stayed on their workout routines over their only break of the season.

He added he hoped this was a sign of the increased maturity the team will need during the second half of the season to improve on its 5-10 start. The Wildcats have 12 games left on their schedule, 10 of them South Division contests.

The Lady Wildcats will also hope to benefit from the Christmas layoff. The Lady Cats went into the break on the heels of a 92-76 victory over division foe Southwest Community College, which broke a five-game losing streak and left their record at 6-6 overall and 1-2 in the South Division.

During the skid Antrice McGill, who earlier in the season was ranked second in the nation in scoring with almost 27 points per game, was slowed by strained vocal cords.

Unpack the bats and the baseballs. Baseball season, at least the pre-season portion of it, has arrived.

Some 43 players, including 20 returning lettermen from last year's 44-20 team, are expected to be on hand Jan. 15 when Mississippi State University launches pre-season baseball practice, weather permitting, at Dudy Noble Field.

"We're anxious to get our pre-season work started," said Bulldog coach Ron Polk, entering his 14th season as head coach at Mississippi State University. "We've got a veteran ball club that has a chance to have a good season this spring. We had a productive fall practice and are anxious to begin preparations for the coming season."

Mississippi State, ranked No. 1 in "Baseball America's" pre-season collegiate poll, opens the 1989 campaign Feb. 25 at Dudy Noble Field against Birmingham Southern.

Polk's 14th Bulldog Baseball edition will be one of the most experienced in recent years, as the Bulldogs return all but one defensive starter from the 1988 team that finished runnersup in the SEC Baseball Tournament and third in the NCAA South Regional Tournament.

Junior centerfielder Jody Hurst and junior third baseman-pitcher Pete Young, both pre-season All-Americans, head up a talented veteran Mississippi State team, which also includes a trio of seniors, catcher Barry Winford, three-year starting shortstop Brad Hildreth, and righthanded pitcher Nelson Arriete.

Junior Richie Grayum, who led the team in homeruns with 13 and RBI with 68, and sophomore righty Bobby Reed, the NCAA leader in earned run average at 1.09, also return.

Further bolstering the Mississippi State roster and on hand for the start of pre-season workouts this spring are five freshman signees.

Mississippi State No. 1 in 'Baseball America' '89 poll

Coach Ron Polk's 1989 Mississippi State University diamondmen have been tabbed as the nation's No. 1 team in the pre-season baseball poll conducted by 'Baseball America.'

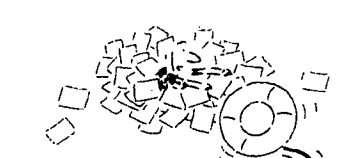

The Bulldogs, who return all but one defensive starter and two regulars in the pitching core from last year's 44-20 edition, open the 1989 campaign at Dudy Noble Field Feb. 25 against Birmingham Southern.

"We are very pleased that 'Baseball America' thinks we deserve the national ranking," said coach Ron Polk, entering his 14th season at Mississippi State. "At the same time we know how difficult it is to rank college baseball teams, particularly before the season starts. Like a number of other teams, we think we have a chance to have a good ball club this year. Just how good remains to be seen."

Joining the Bulldogs in the top 10 are Arizona, Fresno State, Oklahoma State, Arizona State, Miami, Wichita State, Loyola Marymount, Texas and Cal State Fullerton. Defending SEC champ Florida was ranked 14th and Kentucky, coached by former Mississippi State assistant Keith Madison, is ranked 23rd in Baseball America's top 25 poll.

Three Southeastern Conference teams, including Mississippi State, were also ranked in the pre-season baseball poll conducted by Collegiate Baseball. The Florida Gators were picked No. 9, Mississippi State No. 12 and Louisiana State No. 14 in the top 30 poll conducted by the national publication based in Tucson, Ariz. Defending NCAA champ Stanford was the pre-season No. 1 pick of Collegiate Baseball.

Quail population increased by resource management

Quail hunters are not just imagining a decrease in Mississippi's bird numbers. Several factors are contributing to a continuing decline in the state's quail population.

"Numbers of quail, as well as numbers of quail hunters, are definitely down statewide," said Benny Herring, a wildlife biologist with the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation.

In the 1984-85 season, 45,000 hunters reportedly harvested 885,000 quail, compared to the 1987-88 season when 43,000 hunters bagged 604,000 birds, he said.

Herring said the decrease in bird numbers comes from a combination of several reasons, but the primary problem is the state's agricultural and forestry management practices.

"The clean, large scale farming practices leave no place for quail to nest, raise their young and survive," Herring said. "Quail habitat has decreased significantly. As long as the current agriculture and forestry practices continue, the future for quail doesn't look very good."

The second factor impacting the quail population is adverse weather conditions especially during nesting season (late May through July). Weather conditions such as drought or excessive rainfall can have a serious effect on the birds—particularly on already low populations and poor habitat conditions.

Herring said predators such as fire ants, armadillos and coyotes are not the culprits for the decreasing populations.

"Certainly the spread of coyotes is a concern among quail hunters, but if you've got sufficient habitat, you don't worry about predators," Herring said. "The only time to really worry about predators is when there is a severe shortage of habitat and predators concentrate on those small areas. Then predators will affect populations."

Herring said educating the public on the causes for the decreased quail population and the methods for improving quail numbers is the best solution.

"The only answer is for those interested in birds, such as private land owners and hunting clubs, to provide adequate habitat to support quail," he said.

The Mississippi legislature designated $250,000 last year for improving quail and small game management in the state.

The Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service has been approved to receive a grant for $50,000 of those funds to educate the public to improve Mississippi's quail population. The program will be managed through the extension Wildlife and Fisheries and 4-H Youth Development departments.

Jim Yonge, extension 4-H youth development specialist, said funds for the wildlife food-plot program will cover costs including educational materials, minimum grants for youth to establish plots and other program expenses.

"Youth and adults alike need to learn the value of adequate food supplies for increasing wildlife populations," Yonge said. "By teaching youth the proper methods for providing quail habitat, a lifelong awareness of wildlife resource management can be established."

Herring said other projects include working with the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Stations in establishing three quail habitat improvement sites.

MAFES will also assist in influencing maintenance schedules along power company utility lines across the state. Alternatives to bush-hogging brush will be considered.

The Department of Wildlife Conservation will work with the Mississippi State University College of Veterinary Medicine in a study on disease and parasite problems influencing native and pin-raised quail.

Four quail management seminars sponsored by the department are set for New Albany, Jan. 21; Grenada, Jan. 22; Jackson, Feb. 4; and Laurel, Feb. 5.

Bass fishing's hottest new lure— The tube jig

For the past several years, professional bass anglers have been catching fish in tournaments coast to coast with a lure known as the tube jig. Developed for deep, clear Western lakes, the lure has since proven effective in practically all water conditions.

The secret's out of the bag for the pros, too. Tube jigs are now being manufactured by a number of lure makers, and anglers everywhere are learning to use them.

One of the earliest tube jig anglers was Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member Guido Hibdon, winner of the 1988

Bass Masters Classic. He's caught bass on them in water from eight to 80 feet deep, in both clear and dingy conditions, in thick cover and at all seasons of the year.

"Basically, a tube jig is a hollow plastic worm that is open at one end, almost like a shell. Sizes range from about two inches up to as long as four or five inches, but all have a tail of squid-like tentacles at the open end," explains Hibdon.

"What seems to make them effective is that the hollow body traps air so the lure falls slower than a plastic worm. When it falls, it falls in a series of loops rather than straight down, so it has that added appeal, as well."

Hibdon likes to rig his tube jigs with a leadhead hook weighing 1/16 or even 1/32-ounce, and he fishes the lure with spinning tackle using four, six, eight or 10-pound test line.

"The majority of time I fish it in water less than 10 feet deep," explains Hibdon, "but it works at all depths. You have to learn to be brave with the lure because it is truly effective in heavy cover."

"Just sling it into a treetop or brushpile the way you would a weedless worm or jig, work it up and down a few times, and when a bass hits, lead it out with gentle line pressure before you actually set the hook."

Another favorite tactic Hibdon often uses is to swim the tube jig around boat docks or in standing timber. Around the docks, he casts, lets the lure sink two to three feet, then slowly reels it back. With such a retrieve the lure rises and falls and the stringy tail flutters constantly.

"Often, when I'm fishing deeper boat docks," says the Johnson Outboards pro, "I work the tube jig with a heavier 3/8-ounce leadhead."

This causes the lure to fall faster and more erratically. It looks like some type of creature in trouble that would make an easy meal for a bass, and I think that's why bass hit it."

In deep, clear water, Hibdon rigs his tube jigs Carolina-style, with a full one-ounce sinker about five feet up the line above the jig. He rigs the jig with a long-shank crappie hook, with a small cork glued to the shank. The cork adds floatation to the lure so it dances crazily above the sinker bouncing along the bottom.

When bass are schooling, as they do in late summer and into the fall on many lakes, Hibdon fishes two tube jigs at once. One jig is tied on a loop knot about 18 inches above the other. The rig is cast into the fish, then simply cranked back without any special action.

"The tube jig will probably be one of the most popular lures for the coming year," says Hibdon, "and it's easy to see why. It's one of those lures that just seems to catch fish under any conditions."

Serious bass anglers should consider using the newest OMC System Matched Parts and Accessories fuel filter on their high performance outboards. It features a spin-on cartridge with a treated paper element able to catch particles as small as 25 microns and separate water from fuel. The filter kit is available from Johnson and Evinrude outboard dealers and may be adapted for use with almost any brand of outboard motor.

MILITARY MENTIONS

AIRMAN HINKKANEN
Stacie Lea Hinkkanen, daughter of Mr. Gregory Hinkkanen and Ms. Jacqueline Hinkkanen, enlisted in the Air Force Dec. 6, according to Sergeant Jerry L. Gordon, Air Force Recruiter in Gulfport.

Upon successfully completing the Air Force's six-week basic military training course at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Texas she is scheduled to receive technical training in the Explosive Ordnance Disposal Spec. area.

Airman Hinkkanen, a 1988 graduate of Bay Senior High School, will be earning credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools.

REAGAN PRESIDENCY

When President Ronald Reagan finishes his second term on Jan. 20, 1989, he will depart the White House as arguably the most popular president in this century. He will leave behind two legacies: a potent image of leadership and style, and the more uncertain impact of his policies.

'Frontline' premieres its 1989 season with a 90-minute special, 'The Real Life of Ronald Reagan,' Wednesday, Jan. 18, at 9 p.m. on Mississippi ETV. Correspondent Garry Willis explores our national romance with this 'ex-actor,' as Reagan still likes to describe himself. The documentary asks why did the 'Great Communicator' succeed in appealing to so many Americans so convincingly? And how will Americans assess and remember him?

Nominations for arts advisory panel sought

The Mississippi Arts Commission is requesting nominations for arts advisory panelists from the general public for the commission's granting process.

The qualifications for panelists include a professional background in a particular field of art; general knowledge of the field or discipline on a statewide, regional, and national basis; ability to work well in a group; and experience.

Panelists will be responsible for advising the arts commission on granting awards to organizations and individuals in the categories of arts in education, visual arts, music, dance, theatre, folk arts, community arts, and inter-arts. The Mississippi Arts Commission selects the panelists and alternates from the nominations.

The composition of the advisory panels reflects a wide variety of experience and a background in the arts as well as a racial, ethnic, and geographic representation in the state.

Panels meet annually to review grant applications and to make recommendations and comments on the artistic and educational quality of applicants and the administrative capability of applicant organizations to the commission's board for final grant awards.

To nominate advisory panelists, please send the name, address, a recommendation statement or letter, and a resume on the nominee to Doonie Hector, Public Information Officer, Mississippi Arts Commission, 239 North Lamar Street, Jackson, MS 39201.

The Mississippi Arts Commission is a state agency with funding provided by the Mississippi State Legislature and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

Recreation Association to meet tonight

The Hancock County Recreation Association's first meeting of the new year will be held in The Meeting Place of Ruth's Bakery, Court Street in Bay St. Louis on Thursday, January 12 at 7 p.m.

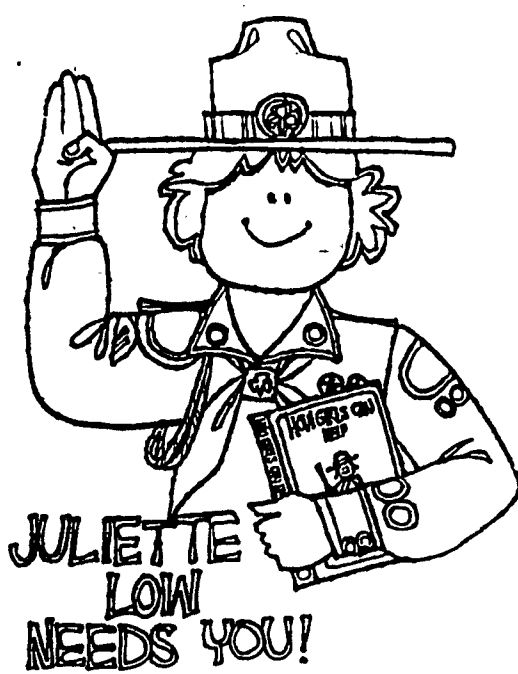

Slated for discussion are the two Boy Scout Troops being sponsored by the association, an after-school program, planned fundraising events and committee assignments.

COOKIE SALE

More than 10,000 area Girl Scouts are participating in the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale this month, now through January 21.

Cookies can be ordered from neighborhood Girl Scouts or by contacting local cookie chairman, Mrs. John Holmes at 467-3710.

Proceeds from the sale of Girl Scout cookies support a wide variety of activities including scholarships for summer camp, funding for community service projects and Girl Scout troop and neighborhood events.

AND WHO IS JULIETTE LOW? She is the founder of Girl Scouting. Hancock County is in need of adult volunteers. We have 145 girls in area schools without leaders. Would you like to volunteer? You need not have a child in school to become a leader. Just a few hours a week of volunteer service can make a difference in a young girl's future. If you are interested, please call Kathy at 467-0940

Mammography helps women fight breast cancer

Many women have a nagging fear in the back of their minds—the fear of being diagnosed with breast cancer.

The fear of breast cancer is nothing to dismiss lightly. The danger is very real as one out of every 11 women is diagnosed with breast cancer. It is one of the leading causes of cancer death, especially in women in their early 40s.

The professionals at Hancock Medical Center want women in the community to have peace of mind by learning more about breast cancer and its detection. Mammography is the specialized examination for x-raying the breasts to detect cancer at the earliest stages. The procedure involved minimal pain and only takes about one hour—an hour that can save a life.

Mammography can detect cancer while it is still at the nonpalpable level, which may in reality be several years before the cancer has grown large enough to be felt.

"Early detection is the key," said Jeanie Moran, radiology supervisor at Hancock Medical Center and board member for the American Cancer Society.

"You can find cancer on a mammogram sooner than you can find it by any other method; and the sooner you find it, the greater the chances of complete recovery."

The mammography room at Hancock Medical Center has been decorated to provide a warm, comfortable atmosphere to make women feel more at ease. And patients can receive test results from their physician with minimal delay. Considering these facts, a mammogram is something that should not be delayed.

"The earlier the cancer is detected, the chances for survival increase," Moran said. "The danger in breast cancer is that the number of lymph glands and blood vessels in the breast tissue can spread the cancer to other parts of the body at a rapid rate."

The American Cancer Society recommends that every woman around the age of 35 have a mammogram to establish a baseline or reference point. After that first mammogram, the procedure is recommended once every two years for those women 40 to 50 years of age and every year for those women over 50 years of age. Monthly breast self-examinations and annual physician examinations are also recommended to combat breast cancer.

Some women fall into the category of being a high risk candidate for breast cancer. Moran stressed that those women who have a personal family history of breast cancer

Moran and oncologist Ronald LeBlanc, M.D. will be featured speakers tonight at Hancock Medical Center for a special program: "Woman to Woman: Frankly Speaking About Cancer," beginning at 7 p.m. and is open to the public.

This free Family Health Focus program will cover various forms of cancer common among women, including lung, and those women with fibrocystic disease at an early age should pay particular attention to mammography. "These women are at a significantly increased risk of being diagnosed with breast cancer," she related.

Moran said she wants to see the public well informed about various forms and prevention of cancer. Mammography is especially important, she said, because of the role it plays in the fight against breast cancer.

"I am amazed by the number of women who are uninformed about the causes, treatment and prevention of cancer," Moran said. "That's why educational programs like this are essential, especially for women."

breast, colon and uterine cancer. Informative slides, films and literature will be presented; and speakers will entertain any questions regarding cancer risks, prevention and treatment.

"Ladies shouldn't wait until a problem occurs to learn about cancer," Moran stressed. "Through mammography breast cancer can be discovered; and if detected early enough, it can be treated very successfully."

Those wishing to obtain more information on breast cancer and mammography, or wanting to tour the mammography room or schedule a guest speaker on the subject, may call Hancock Medical Center at 467-9081 ext. 2260.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

Blood Pressure

Retired Senior Volunteer Program sponsors free blood pressure testing Tuesdays, 9:30-11:30 a.m., American Legion Post No. 77, Waveland; Wednesdays, 10:30-11:30 a.m., RSVP office, Senior Citizens Center, Old Spanish Trail, Bay St. Louis.

Hancock Medical Center Women's Auxiliary (Pink Ladies) conducts free blood pressure testing at the hospital, 10-11:30 a.m. Tuesdays.

Legal Line

Volunteer attorneys answer legal questions from the general public from 6 to 7 p.m., first Wednesdays at 1-374-4160 toll free. Call from pay telephones should be made collect. The service is sponsored by Harrison County Young Lawyers, South Mississippi Planning and Development District Area Agency on Aging and South Mississippi Legal Services Corporation.

Money Management

The Consumer Money Management Center serves the public by providing free financial consultations as well as informational literature and seminars for employers, educational institutions and civic and professional groups.

Information and assistance from the center relates to various aspects of personal money management including budgeting, credit repayment, insurance, and investments.

The service is sponsored by Mississippi State University and Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. To set up an appointment call Hancock County Extension Office, 467-5456.

Senior Center

Located in the Valena C. Jones Bldg. at 301 Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis, the center serves Hancock County citizens 60 plus years of age.

Under the Hancock County Human Resource Agency, the center provides classes in ceramics, macramé, art, quilting, counted cross stitch, silk flowers, Christmas ornaments, framing, wood working and various other crafts. A morning snack is provided with donations from various clubs and businesses.

The center has a contract to provide 30 home delivered meals a day to those seniors who cannot provide for themselves, and 35 meals for those who have a need for a hot well-balanced meal daily in the cafeteria at the center.

Transportation is provided through a contract with Coast Area Transportation for most seniors in the county to bring them into the center, or to take them to the grocery, doctor, etc.

The contract with Methodist Senior Services provides two homemakers for about two hours a week to homebound, needy seniors to do light house-keeping or errands for them.

For more information, call the center at 467-9292 from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Senior Citizen Jobs

Seniors Job Registry, Russell Youth Court Building, 126 Court Street, Bay St. Louis, offers placement services to employees and employers.

The registry is a free community service provided by National Council of Senior Citizens Senior Aides Program funded by the Department of Labor through South Mississippi Planning and Development District.

The registry attempts to place seniors 55 years old or older in hourly, daily, weekly or monthly positions, according to Gertrude Sauer, coordinator.

Call 467-7945 for additional information. Office hours are 8 a.m. to noon Mondays through Fridays.

Thrift Store

Adult Literacy Education

Tutoring sessions for adults who want to learn to read and write are available through the Hancock County Library System. The program is open free of charge to any adult aged 16 and above who wants to improve reading skills to a grade five level.

Each student meets one-on-one with a certified tutor trained in the use of the Laubach Adult Literacy method. Student/tutor units meet at a time and learning center convenient to both. Learning centers for literacy are currently located in Bay St. Louis, Kiln, Waveland, Diamondhead, Dedeaux, Clermont Harbor and Pearlinton.

Call Helene Roth, Hancock County literacy coordinator at the Bay St. Louis Library, 467-5282, for information. Persons who wish to teach adults to read as volunteer literacy tutors are also encouraged to call.

Record-keeping seminar slated

Montgomery & Daughter, public accountants, Gulfport, will present a free two-hour seminar on Tuesday, Jan. 24, 6 to 8 p.m. at the Gulfport-Harrison County Library on record-keeping for tax purposes.

Topics will include both personal and business record keeping, including IRA deposits and withdrawals, passive income and losses, vehicle expenses, mortgage interest payments, charitable contributions, children's income, investment interest, employee business expenses, 'at-risk' investments, non-employee compensation reporting requirements, inventory, and sale of personal residence.

Time constraints will limit the presentation to record-keeping requirements of Internal Revenue Service.

The seminar is presented without charge as a public service of Montgomery & Daughter, public accountants. Additional information may be secured by phoning 1-864-3333.

GREENHOUSE EFFECT

Was the searing summer of 1988 a taste of things to come? Does the future hold a world of endless summers, failing crops and rising sea levels?

'Nova' at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 17, on Mississippi ETV, looks at the distressing theory that human activity is altering the atmosphere creating a hot-house climate—a greenhouse effect—on 'Hot Enough for You?'

Before addiction pulls you under, call the Chemical Dependency Treatment Center.

Drinkers, drug users, and their families. All of them struggle against chemical dependency. All meet its frustration head to head.

For each of them, chemical dependency is a fatal disease. And it must be treated like one.

That's why we've opened the Chemical Dependency Treatment Center at Slidell Memorial Hospital.

In this comprehensively designed recovery and rehabilitation center, experienced and certified physicians, counselors, and nurses provide well-rounded treatment, including education and counseling, to individuals and families. Formal treatment is followed by a support program that lasts at least one year.

the first step is cleansing

Treatment begins with our Detoxification Education Assessment & Referral (DEAR). Here, patients enter a process of cleansing, education, and assessment, through which our physicians and treatment team determine the best form of help: Inpatient Rehabilitation, Outpatient Treatment, or another appropriate strategy.

the focus is a chemical-free life

Inpatient Rehabilitation is a 24- to 30-day, highly focused intensive treatment program in which patients learn the steps to conducting chemical-free lives. Board Certified Substance Abuse Counselors and Registered Nurses work directly with patients in individual counseling, group therapy, discharge planning, treatment planning, and education.

relapse prevention follows initial treatment

An important part of treatment is Aftercare. Because chemical dependents sometimes relapse, group and individual education, therapy, and support sessions are conducted weekly for 12 months by experienced Substance Abuse Counselors.

Aftercare involves patients' families, who participate in a recovery program of their own.

strengthening the support system

Family Treatment is focused, in the first week, on educational groups that provide families a forum for asking questions and hearing from others with similar experiences. A specialized treatment program designed especially for them follows. Families receive information about addiction, and the support they need during the patient's recovery.

In the third week, families begin a week of intensive treatment which involves the patient. During this phase, families sort out important issues, assess their situation, and face the effects of this serious problem.

outpatient help for patients and families

Patients directed by our physicians and treatment team to Outpatient Treatment undergo education and therapy sessions on weekday evenings for 7 weeks. Board Certified Substance Abuse Counselors lead these meetings, which may involve the patient's family. Outpatients attend Aftercare for one year.

depend on us, not on drugs and alcohol

The Chemical Dependency Treatment Center is a comprehensive recovery and rehabilitation center that provides a full range of treatment services for the chemically-dependent and their families.

The pull of chemical dependency is relentless. But now there's a team you can depend on to help you stay afloat. Ours.

Jewish Service seeks scholarship applicants

The Jewish Children's Regional Service has announced application deadlines for 1989 overnight camp scholarships, and college scholarships for Fall Semester 1989.

Those families that are planning to apply for a camp scholarship must have the application to the JCRS by March 15.

Deadline for submission of college scholarship applications is April 15, if you are reapplying for an existing scholarship, and May 15, if you are applying for a new scholarship.

To be eligible for either type of scholarship, the recipient/recipient family must document financial need, and be a resident of one of the seven states served by the JCRS: Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Tennessee, or Texas. In 1988, the JCRS awarded 135 overnight camp scholarships, and college grants or no-interest loans to 46 university students. Since financial status is the major criterion for selection, applications are reviewed on a confidential basis and the names of those who are selected for scholarships are not released by the JCRS.

The Jewish Children's Regional Service is the only regional, and the oldest existing Jewish child welfare agency in the United States.

Its services also include scholarships for residential psychiatric care for Jewish children and adolescents whose families cannot afford the service. The agency also performs adoptive home studies and consults nationally on problems related to the welfare of Jewish children.

The agency address is 5342 St. Charles Avenue, New Orleans, LA 70115. The phone number is (504) 899-1595. Questions regarding the agency's services are encouraged.

Lakeshore Baptist presents inspirational video films

Lakeshore Baptist Church announces the presentation of a film "Honey, Your Mama's in Prison", January 18 at 7 p.m.

Presented by the Jail and Prison Ministry, the 43-minute video portrays the true story of five women in prison. Locked away from their children, they discuss their loneliness, sorrow and triumph through faith.

"Please come and see what the Lord can do even if someone makes a mess out of their life," said John Richard of Lakeshore Baptist Church.

A book with the same title can be ordered by writing Chaplain Ray (IPM), P.O. Box 63, Dallas, Tex. 75221-9990.

ST. ANN CHURCH NEWS

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST.

Three Kinds of Souls, Three Prayers

1. I am a bow in your hands, Lord. Draw me, lest I rot.
2. Do not over draw me, Lord. I shall break.
3. Over draw me, Lord, and who cares if I break.

—Kazantzakis

CCD classes are held every Saturday, 10 a.m. in the parish hall for grade school children attending public school.

St. Ann-St. John CYO members are very busy these days trying to sell ads, business or personal, for their March 10-12 CYO Convention Booklet. For every ad they sell, one-fourth of the price benefits our local CYO group by helping defray their participation in the convention expenses.

Ads range from $15 to $100. Won't you give our teens the support they need! CYO representatives will be at all Masses at St. Ann and St. John churches Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 14 and 15 and again Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 21 and 22. Deadline for ads is Jan. 23.

Taylor to attend leadership seminar

Coast Episcopal High School has announced the selection of Laura Jean Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Taylor of Pass Christian, as ambassador to the state Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation Leadership Seminar to be held in the spring.

Taylor, a sophomore, is Student Council representative for her class and a Raider cheerleader. She is a member of the National Honor Society and was selected for Who's Who Among Distinguished American High School Students. She is an alternate on the WYES Varsity Quiz Bowl team. Taylor works on the school annual staff and is on the Raider basketball team.

The HOBY Seminar helps motivate, train and rewards future leaders. Only one sophomore is eligible from each school.

Seminars are held in each of the 50 states, and one delegate is selected from each state to attend the HOBY International Leadership Seminar held in Baltimore, Md.

Scripps Howard Spelling Bee encourages English, spelling skills

The American Cancer Society, Mississippi Division Inc. and The Daily Leader Newspaper of Brookhaven announce co-sponsorship for the 1989 Scripps Howard National Spelling Bee.

Children in grades 6-8 may participate in the Senior Spelling Bee and children in grades 4-5 may participate in the Junior Spelling Bee.

The Local School Bees are being held in the school classrooms between the month of January and the first of February. The District Finals will be held (at locations to be announced later) on Friday, March 3. The State Final will be in the Jackson area on Friday, April 7.

These spelling bees are held to help students of Mississippi improve their spelling, vocabulary, and their use of the English language. The American Cancer Society urges participation from all children to help raise much needed funds for programs of research, education and service to cancer patients throughout the state of Mississippi.

For more information contact the American Cancer Society, Mississippi Division Inc. at 362-8874 or 1-800-872-4234.

Lambert chosen Youth of Month

Alexander Lambert III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lambert of Pass Christian, was honored as November Youth of the Month by the Exchange Club of Gulfport.

Lambert, a senior at Coast Episcopal High School, is a member of the National Honor Society, and Who's Who Among American High School Students. He is lay-out editor of the school yearbook, the 'Pigeonhole'.

Lambert is also captain of the Raider football team and a member of the basketball team. He is a member of Students Against Driving Drunk and is on the honor roll.

The Exchange Club is a national service organization with chapters throughout the country. One of its many programs for young people is the 'Youth of the Month' chosen from area schools. From the students honored each month by the club, a 'Youth of the Year' is chosen, and the winner is eligible to compete on the district level.

BALLET

Alan Woodard, Artistic Director

Ballet Mississippi presents 'Coppelia'

Ballet Mississippi continues the 1988-89 season with its premiere production of Coppelia, Friday, Jan. 27 at 8 p.m. in the Jackson Municipal Auditorium.

This charming, full-length ballet is set in an old-fashioned toy shop where one of the dolls 'magically' seems to come to life. Filled with romance, mystery, and intrigue, Coppelia remains one of the most popular ballets of all times. The colorful sets and costumes, the large and talented cast of dancers, the enchanting musical score, and the timeless appeal of the story make this an event to be enjoyed by old and young alike.

Lighting and technical assistance for the production is provided by Bill Kickbush.

Ticket prices are $7, $9.50, $11 and $12.50. For more information call 960-1560.

LEA A. FAYARD of Bay St. Louis has been selected as a regional semifinalist in the 'TEEN Magazine 1989 Great Model Search. As a semifinalist, the photo from which she was chosen will appear in the magazine's March issue and she will compete against 96 other teenage beauties in the next level of the competition. Fayard, an Our Lady Academy student who is a member of the Pass Christian Yacht Club and will travel to Columbia, South America, this summer as an exchange student, is the daughter of Melinda Hobbs of Bay St. Louis and Julian Fayard of Woolmarket and goddaughter of Melva Nicaise of Bay St. Louis. The 15-year-old was also winner of a car in a previous modeling competition, National Hemisphere Beauty.

Cardinal Key initiates selected at Miss. State

The Mississippi State University chapter of Cardinal Key national honor society has selected its new initiates for 1988-89.

The organization is for students of at least junior status who are leaders in the college community and deemed future leaders. Cardinal Key was organized nationally in 1932 and the MSU chapter is one of 40 active chapters in the country.

Initiates include Cheryl Jones of Bay St. Louis and Karl Scott of Picayune.

Slidell Theatre presents 'Love, Sex and the IRS'

Slidell Little Theatre will present 'Love, Sex, and the IRS' Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. Jan. 13-28 at their playhouse on Nellie Drive.

Christal Faciane Jenneman directs this comedy of mixups which tells what happens when you try to fool your roommate, your girlfriend, your mother, your landlord, and especially the Internal Revenue.

Martin Booda and Bill Redman have the parts of the roommates who try to save money on their taxes by filing a joint return; Melissa Ogren and Jeanna Redman play their respective girlfriends.

Helen Klein is the mother who arrives unexpectedly, Brian Nicaud plays the IRS agent, Derrick LeCombe portrays the landlord, and Don Stevens has the part of the justice of the peace.

There will be complementary champagne before the opening performance on Jan. 13. For more information call (504) 541-0324.

Hotline manned by Mental Health Assn.

The Mental Health Association of the Capital Area is sponsoring a 24-hour hotline during the 1989 Legislative Session.

A taped message, highlighting mental health and human service bills, will be updated daily.

The in-state toll free number for persons outside the Jackson area is 1-800-962-0089.

In addition to the hotline, Mental Health Association members will receive a weekly "legislative briefing" which will summarize the status of major human service bills before Legislature.

To become a member of the association, send $15 to Mental Health Association of the Capital Area, P.O. Box 5105, Jackson, MS 39296-5105.

The hotline is part of the MHACA's increasing effort to share important legislative information and develop better communication with social service providers and the community, toward better mental health services.

ON ETV

BIG BIRD IN JAPAN

From the modern streets of Tokyo to the Imperial Palace in Kyoto, Big Bird and Barkley learn about Japanese food, customs and language when 'Big Bird in Japan' comes to Mississippi ETV at 8 p.m., Monday, Jan. 16.

'Sesame Street's' favorite feathered friend and his canine companion attend school with young Japanese students, attempt to eat with chopsticks and learn how to greet guests with a bow when they make new friends in Japan on this one-hour prime-time special.

DRAWING WINNER—Mrs. Dawn Schutt of Diamondhead, left, won a television-stereo combination unit at a recent open house sponsored by State Farm agent Cathy Ladner of Waveland.

ROGER OGE, superintendent of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District, has been named a member of the State Department of Education Advisory Committee for 1989. Oge will be one of three representatives from Mississippi Association of School Superintendents District VI, which is also represented by Larry Tynes of Poplarville and Ray Streback of Gulfport. The committee was established by State Superintendent of Education Richard A. Boyd shortly after he took office.

Double manufacturers' Coupons

7 DAYS A WEEK!

REDEMPTION RULES:

We will double the coupon value on all Manufacturer Coupons for all items in stock except Tobacco, Cigarettes and Liquor. We will limit coupon redemption to one per customer.
 The Manufacturer coupon value cannot exceed 50¢ and total redemption cannot exceed the cost of the item. Coupons in excess of 50¢ will be redeemed for face value only.
 We will double only the first coupon on the same item. Extra coupons will be redeemed for face value only.
 We will accept but not double FRC coupons. Also we cannot accept rebate coupons.
 WINN-DIXIE store coupons are not included in this offer. Sales tax must be paid according to State Law.

OUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION: THE BEST SERVICE EVER.

At WINN-DIXIE, we're starting the year off right with a strong commitment to friendly service and clean, inviting stores. Our resolve shows in everything we do — from keeping our aisles neat and uncluttered to providing helpful, courteous assistance to our shoppers. We're working toward an important goal to make you a satisfied customer. So come, give us a try. With extra effort and a little extra elbow grease, we're not a shining in '89!
